Unsperr'ak mine own detraction; here abjure
The taints and blames I laid upon myself. Shakespeare.

UNSPER'AKABLE. adj. Not to be expreffed.
A thing, which uttered with true devotion and zeal of heart, affordeth to God himself that glory, that aid to the weakest sort of men, to the most perfect that solid comfort, which is unsperr'akable. Hooker, b. v.
A heavier task could not have been impos'd,
Than I to speak my grief unsperr'akable. Shakespeare.
Both address for fight
Unsperr'akable: for who, though with the tongue
Of angels, can relate?
The comfort it conveys is something bigger than the capacities of mortality; mighty, and unsperr'akable; and not to be understood, till it comes to be felt. South's Sermons.
This fills the minds of weak men with groundless fears, and unsperr'akable rage towards their fellow subjects. Addison.

UNS

UNSTABLY. adv. Inexpressibly; ineffably.

Flies like the nimble journeys of the light,
And is, like that, unspent too in its flight. Dryden.

UNSPH'ER. v. a. To remove from its orb.
You put me off with limber vows; but I,
Though you would'st seek t' unsphe the stars with oaths,
Should yet say, Sir, no going. Shakespeare.

Let my lamp at midnight hour
Be seen in some high lonely tow'r,
Where I may oft out-watch the bear,
With three-fold Plato, to unfold
The spirit of Great, to unfold
What worlds, or what vast regions hold
Th' immortal mind. Milton.

UNSP'ED. adj. Not discovered; not seen.
With narrow search I must walk round
This garden, and no corner leave unsp'ed. Milton.
